

_3.0 Release Notes Common

New Add-on Name

We want to introduce you Comala Share It for Confluence Server. New name, new logo (and better user interface).

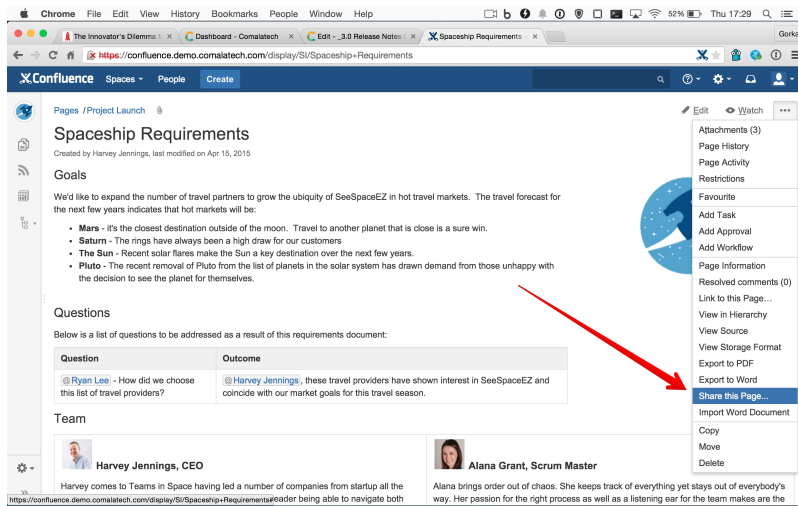

We are making the name and logo consistent with the rest of the Comalatech add-ons family. Share Attachments and Pages will now be known as Comala Share It for Confluence Server. All existing licenses are still valid, if you already have Share Attachments and Pages installed, the upgrade will be available through the Manage Add-ons page as normal.

User Interface Updates

We have improved the user interface to improve your experience. Since sharing a page is not a daily task, we did not want to clutter your pages.

However, a shared page is something to be noted. So, we indicate this new state with a visible Shared banner.

Shared Page Improvements

We've improved the way the shared pages are rendered in Confluence. The public view of shared pages will now look much more like what you see when using Confluence normally. Other updates to page sharing:

- Blog posts can now be shared just like pages
- Attachments used in a shared page are now automatically shared as well ensuring that images work as expected.
